EXAMPLE

EXAMPLE

Every man has some power over others that is exercised without effort on his part. It is a responsibility be cannot dodge. If he is a strong man others will strive to emulate his strength. If he is a weak man, other in passing, will shudder at the thought of being like him. Both serve the noble cause of uplift.

In almost every group, organization or community there is one man who malks his chean way without thought for the preferences, opinions and will of others. He is a strong man; original, dominant, cocksure. If he has looked the world over and decided against it; if it is his custom to attribute the worst possible motives to all men; if he is, in adequate a cynic, those world as features that he was not a considered the conditions of the control of the condition of the conditions of the condition of the conditions of the condition of the conditio a cynic, those who come within his influence are almost certain to find themselves sneering at mandkind and calling the world a failure. But if this strong man is conservative with a well-lined nest and a conviction that all who advocate change or a distuching of dividends are dangerous cranks who should be failed or departed; those who associate with him soon learn to use his pot phrases in denunciation of dreamers and to feel a certain awe of money in large pilles. Therefore, since it is a certainty that the average man, who lacks a dominating personality, will be remade after the image of the strong men within whose orbit he moves, why shouldn't he exercise what little discretion he has in the matter and attach himself to men who are what he would like to be?

HOW THE LACKASS GOT HIS

HOW THE JACKASS GOT HIS REPUTATION

HOW THE JACKASS GOT HIS REPUTATION

It seems that the donkey had not shown his true colors when the world was young, and was widely esteemed as a most sagacious beast. A famous sheik, exceedingly proud of his large herd, invited the Prophet himself to test their wisdom. Mashomet addressed the asses. "Let us test your wisdom," said he. "Answer me this question." said he. "Answer me this question." Said he. "Answer me this question." Said hundles of hay fourney? "And they occurseled among themselves and the made reply: "For a three days journey?" And they occurseled among themselves and the made reply: "For a three days journey?" And they called the said of the said addressed the asses: "I have to make a three days journey, but I will not give you six bundles of hay and three bags of dates for making it. Let him who will go for less stand forth." And behold, they all stood forth and beginn to talk at once. Each underbid the other until finally one sepecially long eared ass agreed to go for one bundle of hay. Then spoke the Prophet: "Dool, you cannot even live for three days on one bundle of hay, much less profit from the Journey." "True," quest the long-cared one, "but I wanted the order." And from that far off day to this, asses have been known as fools, and price-cutters have been known as assee!

Must Sell Butter By Net Weight Inspectors Checking Up 70 See That Consumers Receive Pull Weight
Recently inspectors of the Dairy and Cold Storage Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture
have been making a closer check up of the weights of prints of butter in order to insure that the consumer is receiving full weight. This has disclosed that the legal requirements concerning the sale of butter are not being strictly observed by some vendors.

"Did you ever hear anything so perfectly stunning?" asked the daughter as she turned the radio on

being strictly observed by some ven-dors.

These regulations provide in Sub-sction 3 (a) of Section 6 of Part I.

of The Dairy Industry Act that any butter intended for sale that has been moulded or cut into prints, blocks, squares or pats must be:

"of the full net weight of one-quatter pound, one-half pound, one pound or two pounds, but nothing in this paragraph shall be held to apply to butter in rolls or lumps, of indisertminate weight, as 5/3d by farmers."

The inspectors will continue the check up throughout Canada in order to see that consumers receive full net weight.

Minimum Wage Legislation

Must Provide Annual Earnings To Meet The Minimum Needs
We cannicately trust that the rulers of Ontario and various other Canadian provinces will pay due attention to Mr. Rocsevell's new departure, which is the result of comewhat lengthy experimentation in the directions which they are now thinking of taking. We are particularly interested in the President's works on a control of the president of the part and for some time, and which is part and parcel of a general conviction that rigidity on the part of any element in the business structure is a serious enemy to recovery and progress. "Another question arises," asys the President, "as to whether, in fixing minimum wages on the basis of an hourly or weekly wage, we have reached into the heart of the problem, which is to provide such annual earnings for the lowest paid worker as will mee this minimum needs."

That a minimum wage which shows any serious disparity with what may be termed the "economic" wage in industry generally can only result in the diminiution of enterprise and therefore of employment has some therefore of the president of the president of the president of the president of factory employment in any country depends on the extent of the purchasing bower of the arising the value of factory products is for any reason out of line with the market value of factory products is for any reason out of line with the market value of factory products is for any reason out of line with the market value of factory products is for any reason out of line with the market value of factory products is for any reason out of line with the market value of factory products is for any reason out of line with the market value of factory products is for any reason out of line with the market value of factory products is for any reason out of line with the market value of factory products is for any reason out of line with

who was serving sentence on the charge of murdering her brother-inlaw. She was released after four years imprisonment and was asked to e-enact the crime as she had been accused of poisoning her relative, with noup. She did, and it was noticed that several drops of what seemed water dropped into ene bow when the steam reached the ceiling. Invastigation revealed a large, venomous make occupying a swallow's his jaws into the soup when the hot steam reached his hiding place. The girl is once more free.

Little Helps For This Week

"We know that all things work to-gether for good to them that love God." Romans 8:28.

Ill that He blesses is our good, And unblest good is ill; And all is right that seems most wrong. If it should be His will.

If it should be His will.

To those who know themselves all things work together for good. The good which God gives seems very good, and only because they know that they deserve them not. The crits which God allows seem also good because they see in them His loving hand put forth to heat them of what shuts God out from the soul. They love God intensely, in that He is so good to them in each and every way. They love God for what seem crills knowing them to be from His hand real goods. For He by whom "all the halrs of our head are numbered" directs everything which befalls us in life, in perfect wholem and love to the well-being of our goals.

British House Of Commons Burned Hundred Years Ago

British House Of Commens Burned
Hundred Years ago, on Oct. 18, 1834, the House of Commons was burned down. The great-grand-father of the present Lord Besoborough, Governor-General of Canada, performed feats of valor at the fare. He was then M.P. for Nottingham.
He climbed on the roof to direct
the hose, in spite of the smoke,
heat, water, and motten lead flowing around him. He was begged to come down, but did so only two minutes
before the whole of the roof celtapsed.

The fire started in a curious fashion. Until 1827 it was the prantice of the Treasury to issue wcoden 'tallies' as acknowledgements for loans to the government.

Tallies were made by splitting a strip of wood in two, one part being retained by the treasury and the other being issued to the lender, who

It was the custom to store dis-charged tallies in the cellars of the House of Commons, and it was among them that the fire broke out. Paper acknowledgments were sub-stituted for tallies in 1827.—News of the World.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

WITH SINGLE AIM

His feet were guided day on day By purpose clear and bright, He let no trials bar the way, No pleasures cloud the light.

With single thought and aim he we with steadfast mind and soul; He bartered for no cheap content, The vision of his goal.

And happiness like sunlight fell Along the paths he chose; His purpose wove a potent spell, Disarming all his foes.

For him life held an ordered plan, Hours swept serenly on, Each day in shining sequence ran To greet the morrow's dawn.

His hope, a star within his breast, A fixed star, white and pure, Made each dawn brighter than the rest, Each step more firm and sure!

provier 'fell' for the ad, and prompty showed up at the home of a city detective who placed him under arrest and recovered the sewing machine for its owner.

Cuban baking methods require the use of a flour with a high content of me-quality glutten. Flour milled from Canadian wheat satisfies this requirement and consequently 70 per cent of the imports are of flour made from Canadian wheat.

HOW TO MAKE AN ICE WELL

(Lethbrdge Experimental Station Weekly Letter.)

Time for storing ice is appr ing and something on how to build an ice-well will be of interest to many farmers who are anxious to put in a farmers who are anxious to put in a supply of ice for use next summer but have no ice house. The ice-well re-frigerator, as it has been aptly de-scribed, affords an easy and practi-cally means of keeping many products cool during hot days of summer and of particular value to the dairy armer. It consists mainly of a pit dug in the ground in which a solid of ice is formed during freezing weather in winter and during the summer the space in the pit above the ice is used for cooling purposes. [The moisture content of the air in the swel. is very high but practically all pro-ducts requiring refrigeration may be left for a reasonable length of time. Only a few products subject to the effects of moist air cannot be kept for long.

Ice at this station is stored in an ice house with a built in cooling room and the ice-well is not used. Materia for this letter, talerefore, has been taken from other sources including pamphlet No 2, new series, issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, and an article on ice-wells from the North Dakota Experimental Sta-tion of the Montana Farmer.

Either a square or round pit may be used through a square one is easie to build. Dimensions recommended to build. Dimensions recommended for the latter type are 8 feet square and 8 feet deep. A depth of six feet of ice, in a pit of this size will last about five months in a properly constructed well. In light porous soils constructed well. In light provus soils that are well drained and feee from ground water, the water from melting ice will drain away. In heavier soils the well needs to be dug one or two feet deeper and the extra depth filled with gravel or cinders to provide drainage. Post holes dug in the bot-a had time coming back.
